

HABEAS CORPUS DECISION.

Rendered by the Supreme Court of California in a Vagrancy Case.

The Supreme Court of California, in the case of a Miss Fife who was refused a trial by jury by the Superior Court after it had affirmed her conviction in the Los Angeles Police Court for vagrancy, has decided on defendant's petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the following words:

"Upon a thorough examination of the question we are forced to the conclusion that in either civil or criminal cases the denial of a trial by jury is merely error, to be corrected on appeal, and does not go to the jurisdiction of the court so that it may be inquired into on habeas corpus, except in those cases where a jury cannot be waived, and therefore, is a necessary, constituent part of the court."

ALL HIS LINES FORGOTTEN.

Result of the Recent Illness of Richard Mansfield.

Richard Mansfield, who was taken ill with typhoid fever at a time when he was to begin acting at his Garrick Theater, New York, last autumn, was taken to Lakewood as soon as his removal was possible, a month ago. Reports of his slow but steady recovery have come at intervals from that retreat, and later on the news was given out that he was nearly well. He is ready to appear on the stage again, so far as his health is concerned, but his friends have made a startling discovery. It is that he has forgotten the lines of all the plays in his repertory. In every other respect Mr. Mansfield feels remarkably alert, mentally, but it is presumably the result of his illness that the leading roles in "Ben Brummel," "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," "A Parisian Romance" and other pieces in which he has been seen hundreds of times are now wholly strange to him. Mr. Mackay said that Mr. Mansfield would set to work to study his forgotten roles anew. He was to begin a tour in a week or two, but if he is unable to commit the parts to memory the project will, of course, have to be abandoned.
